Christopher,

You and Jenny have a lot going for you - don't blow it! You're very good-looking and you have a great personality! (Both of you!) Thanks for understanding me, helping me through my crises with Todd!, and cheering me up with your humor! I'm really going to miss you next year - really!!! Well, I hope to see you over the summer

(with Jenny), and I hope you'll visit in the future! Keep your humor and you'll have great success!

Love!

You know that I always call those names in a joking manner.

You have been a good friend and don't think you are going to N.A. state to forget your friends to make more. Forget it! You are stuck with us, like it or not. It has been a fun & extremely interesting year because of the many spur of the moment happenings. Take it easy this summer and don't worry about the future & enjoy the present. Keep in touch.

What a year! Drama was excellent. You are so talented - hope you persevere all your talents. I remember all those wild times in the Dasher - you make me laugh so much. Best of luck to you in the future. I've enjoyed your friendship and our really close, personal talks. I'll remember you always. Keep in touch.

Love Always,

We did it! Finally it's over, but in a way I'm kind of sad. You're a bud, and I'm glad we became better friends this year, but you've always been a bud. I'll never forget those times that you made me laugh so hard that I cried and my stomach killed. Good luck in your future endeavors and at college. You've got it in you to make it big in whatever you do! Good Luck!!

Love Always,

A Perspective of Growing Up! Bildungsroman

Our perspective of the 1981-2 school year does not expound on or explain your experience; it simply retells a story that you've heard before but may have forgotten, exposes an image of how you once were and are no longer. Though the story unfolds in a series of definite scenes, it is too big and too comprehensive to treat in its entirety. As a result, we decided to feature an aspect of those years, a point of view for a story with action and characters.

There is no easy way to understand any story being told: we, the tellers, declare and you, the listeners, respond . . . but to it more than us. The staff for the 1982 CAVALCADE quickly realized the clearest plot-line for our theme: to narrate from your point of view, not ours. How you revealed your personality, how you have grown up in a year or more at Parker, how you, the students, are the most important element of this school — this is the real definition of our effort and of our yearbook.

This story, then is a BILDUNGS-ROMAN, or a tale of growing up, of understanding of the world and self. You are featured in this presentation in an exposition on development; the book, then, grows with you.

We are, no doubt, a product of our times. Our personalities reflect the way others think of and react to us. We first develop a vision of the world by merely reflecting or echoing points of view which are not our own. It seems that others are we before we are ourselves.

Below: Students share a joke in the library
Right: Chargers go in for another score.

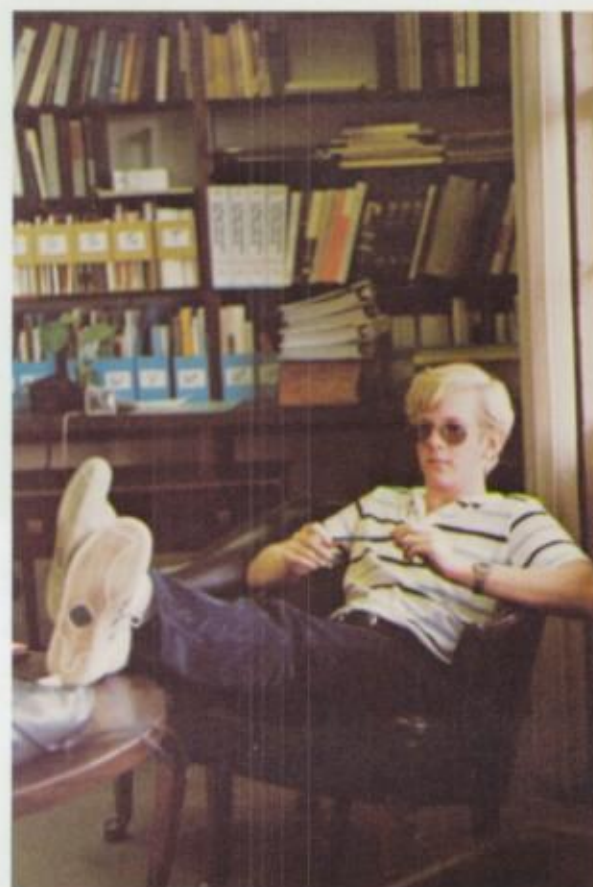

However, in time, we learn to form "our" new perspectives based on role models of our lives (parents, teachers, friends), on influences from the outside world and on the very substance of our education. We finally find ourselves embracing our own value system. The essential and inescapable extension of growing up is in the ability to choose a point of view we finally call our own. It is only when this solidification of character occurs that we can call ourselves independent beings.

How we came to terms with and reach understanding is a BILDUNGS-ROMAN, seen in the words and photographs of the 1982 CAVALCADE. In our introductory theme pages, we develop the concept:

- pages 2-3perspectives of students and San Diego
- pages 4-5the idea of participation
- pages 6-7the development of personality
- pages 8-9academics and athletics
- pages 10-11the understanding achieved through the senses
- pages 12-13growing up at Francis Parker
- pages 14-15the entire perspective and the dedication

We give over to you the business of seeing and feeling the effects of the theme. Read the book together and react; read it alone and remember.

The Active Voice

One human mind is conceived of as something radically distinct from all others; yet, we all know that no person is an "island unto himself." It is a natural fact that human beings are involved; we are part of a complex network of interaction called a society, which necessitates our participation. We will never develop, never learn, never succeed unless our voices are actively heard in our worlds.

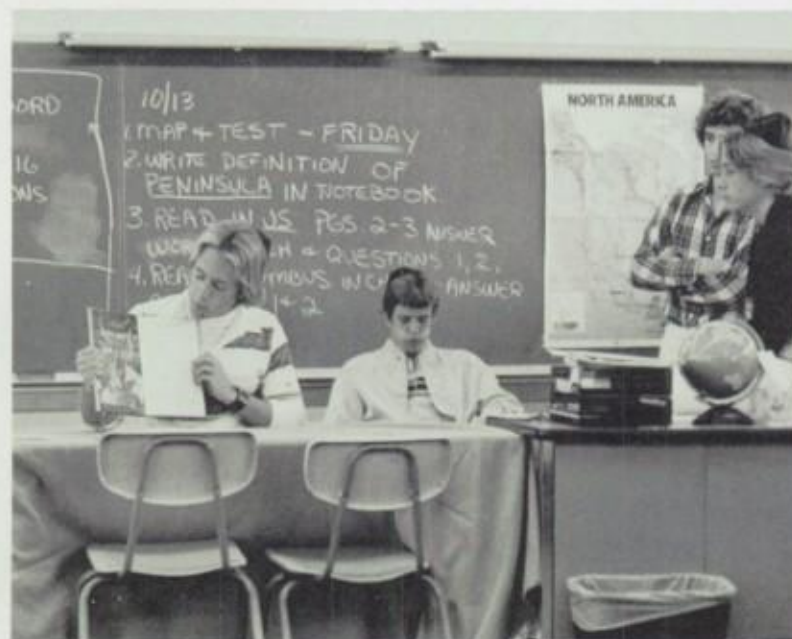

At school, the active voice is much more than a term in grammar. It means involvement in classroom discussions and lessons, in organizations, in sports, in all that makes up Francis Parker School. We must not overlook the importance of a voice active at expression: activity creates spirit and spirit is the essence of social education.

Top: John and Anna stumped at Student Council. Middle: Jacquie Gardiner, Jenny Rush, and Nel Holstein joke about the future draft during spirit week. Right: Mr. Pooch teaches sophomores the language of computers. Far right: Gail Salganick does "Popeye" dance at the Pep Rally.

"Balance"
 Responsibility is a weighed word.
 Experience is its offspring.
 Participation is the common stock.
 Knowledge is the return.
 Activity is the balance
 Of distinctness and comradery.
 Commitment is the next step
 From dreams.

Faces: Pictures of Personality

We all intuitively know that personality is a word with a timeless quality; it was a part of us before language was. Personality will always be the essence of what we know as character. We are made distinctive to the extent that we have personality or to the degree that we are able to really be a person. Personality is a singular reflection of a collective humanity, a microcosm of the "we", a mirror image of self and others. We are the faces of those we have met, the emotions of our friends, the ideas of our teachers, the love of our family and the actions of our society. We are individual and creative beings only because others once were or are now. The Bildungsroman is incomplete without the development of personality.

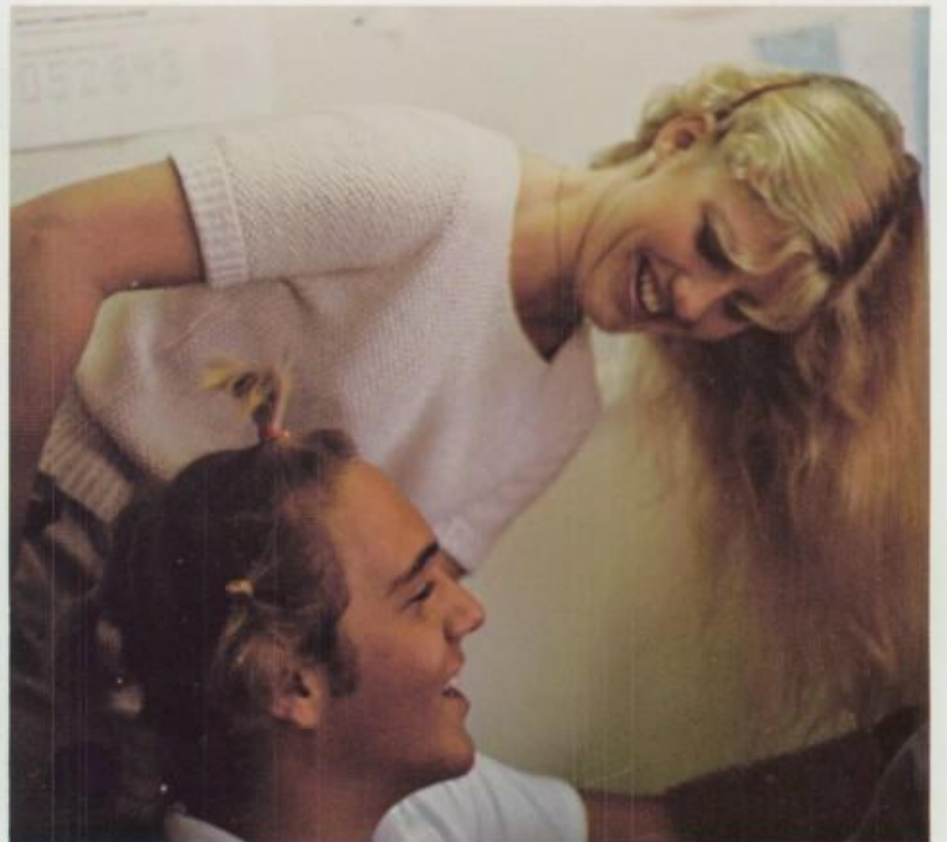

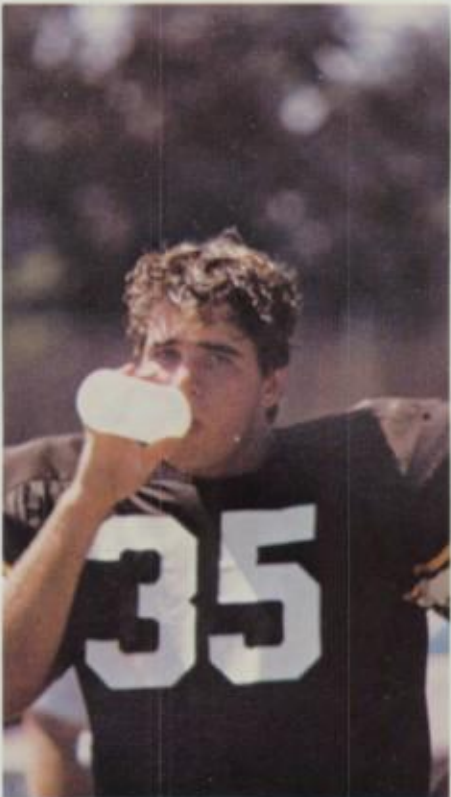

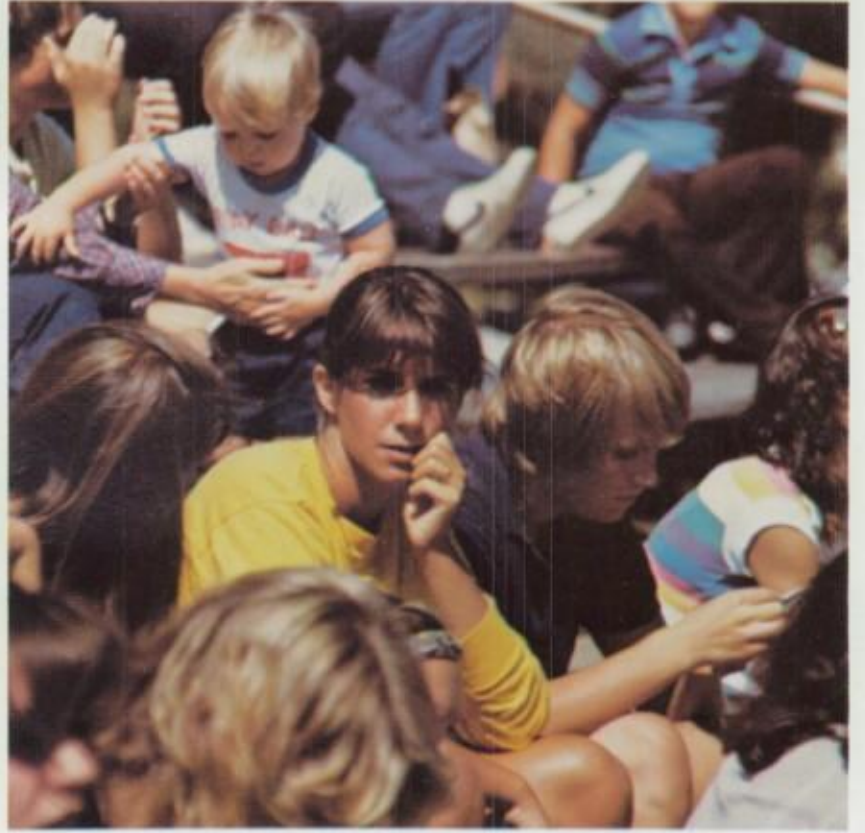

Prototype

I stare in the looking glass,
And our eyes meet.
The figure peers back and smirks secretly.

This is what reflection forms.
How well constructed is this
Fine-line shadow of my character.
Carefully, yet whimsically, I select my traits,
And the merits thrive from the tended soil
Though vices spring up like overlooked weeds,

They naturally arise in any garden.
Balance comes as
Separate personalities show as one.
And I smile at the alter ego to say:
"Mirror, mirror, on the wall . . ."

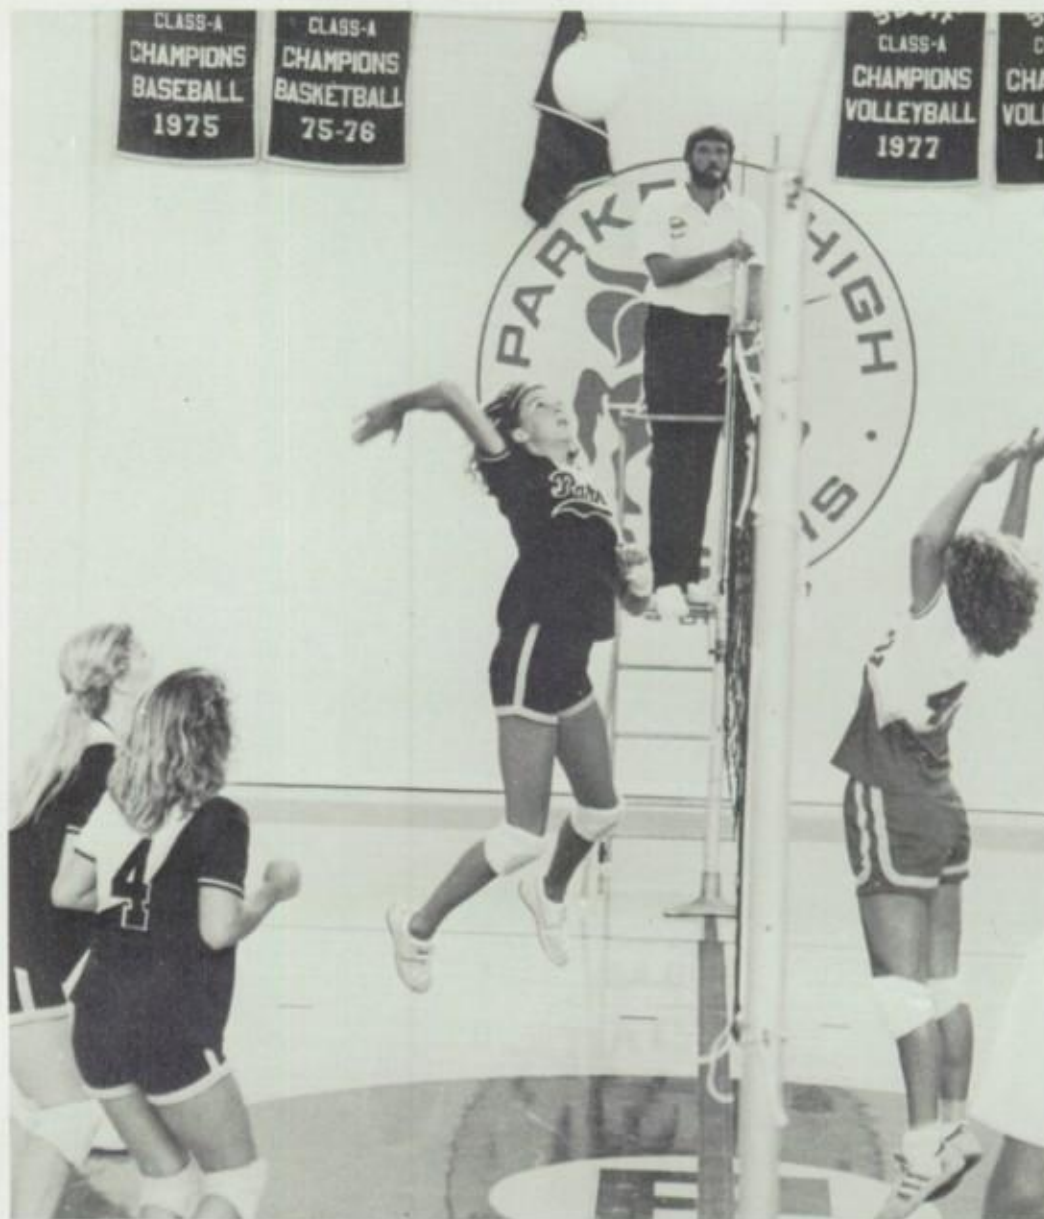

Athletics and Academics

That we go to school to be educated is a given assumption for most people: we must use this knowledge to understand our present and future experiences. A mind once set in motion by learning will remain in motion throughout a person's life! We are prepared for the world because our minds have been properly exercised during the training at school.

But as we have indicated in this theme section, a school is more than books and lessons. It is the opportunity to participate in a team sport or in a physical education class. It is a chance to play, compete, challenge and enjoy; it is feeling good after exercise or aching in physical exhaustion. Skills are developed, confidence and self-control results. A bildungsroman is given many important lines on the athletic and scholastic fields!

"Reading Laps"

Time clock Starts and Mind scans the black and white field.
Eyes race line-to-line lengths.
The pace is set.
The page is turned.
Count the strides like heartbeats
The stretch, the last few points,
Are the strongest yards,
And the crowds cheer
For a silent victory.

Clockwise from top: P.E. class stretches for it; Lisa Takashima draws her attention in art; Shelley Warren explores the "Transcendental Frame of Mind" in class; Eighth graders share a joke about school work; Paul Frye reads the play; Wendy Bucko in the midst of thought.

The Senses: To know and enjoy

Unless perceived, knowledge is unattainable. Unless seen, objects are indistinct. Unless felt, emotions are unreal. Without our senses, we are merely embryonic, unable to mature or to understand, enclosed to the world about us. With our senses, our BILDUNGSROMAN, our novel of growing up is given a plot. It is only through them that we are able to change and intellectualize, to feel and respond, to detect and accept, to acknowledge and apprehend, to love and enjoy. We are a story because we have our senses to understand the plot.

Through the Years at Francis Parker

I start in Pre-school. I did like a lot. My teacher was pretty. I color. I like paint. I move to kindergarten next. It's so much fun. I do new things. I take naps. Mommy says I can't play with hamster so I cry. When I'm 6, I went to first grade. I'm going to play jokes. Let's put Mr. Hamster in the microwave. What's a microwave?

Second and third grade were neat. I learn to read and right (oops . . . write). Mommy says I'm big now. I took a field trip to the post office.

I like books. Fourth grade is hard but I liked WILLIE WONKA. Fifth grade had a lot of homework but I learned. Sixth grade was the best. Mom says I could go to camp. My canoe turned over and I got wet. I went to parties and I even graduated. What a great time school was.

Seventh grade was hard to get used to. Being at the bottom of the school again. I got called a munchkin and a peagreener. Changing classes was fun and Games Nights were great. Eighth grade was a little easier to adjust to and I got into the routine. Mr. Bennett told us we were a big force because of our numbers. My mother wants me to work hard. I'm learning a lot about life.

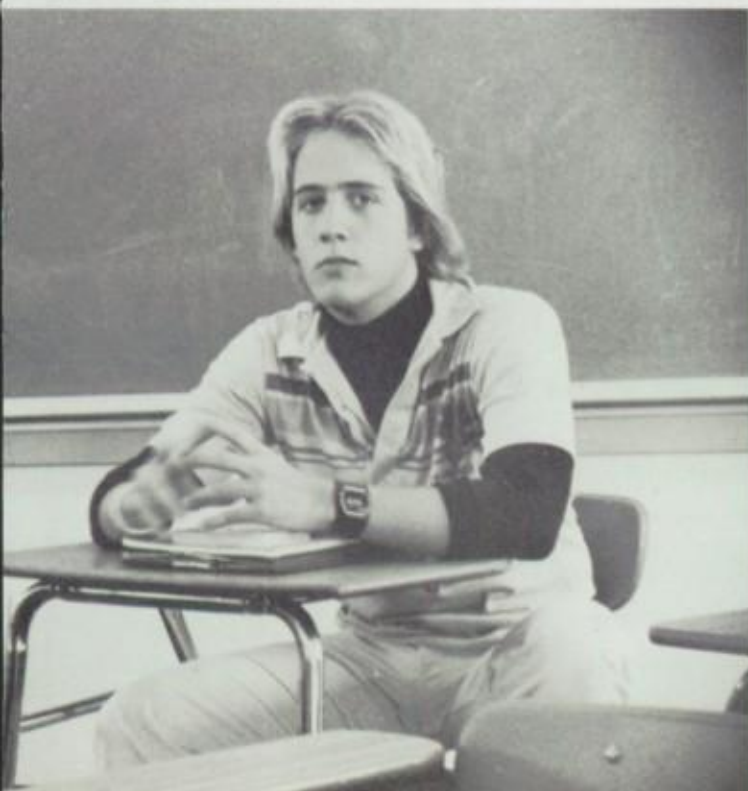

Ninth grade was another turning point. I was physically and mentally more mature. Classes were more challenging and I participated more in sports and school activities. Tenth grade sharpened my skills and intensified my interest in going out. Getting a car was very important for many reasons. Getting into college was far away.

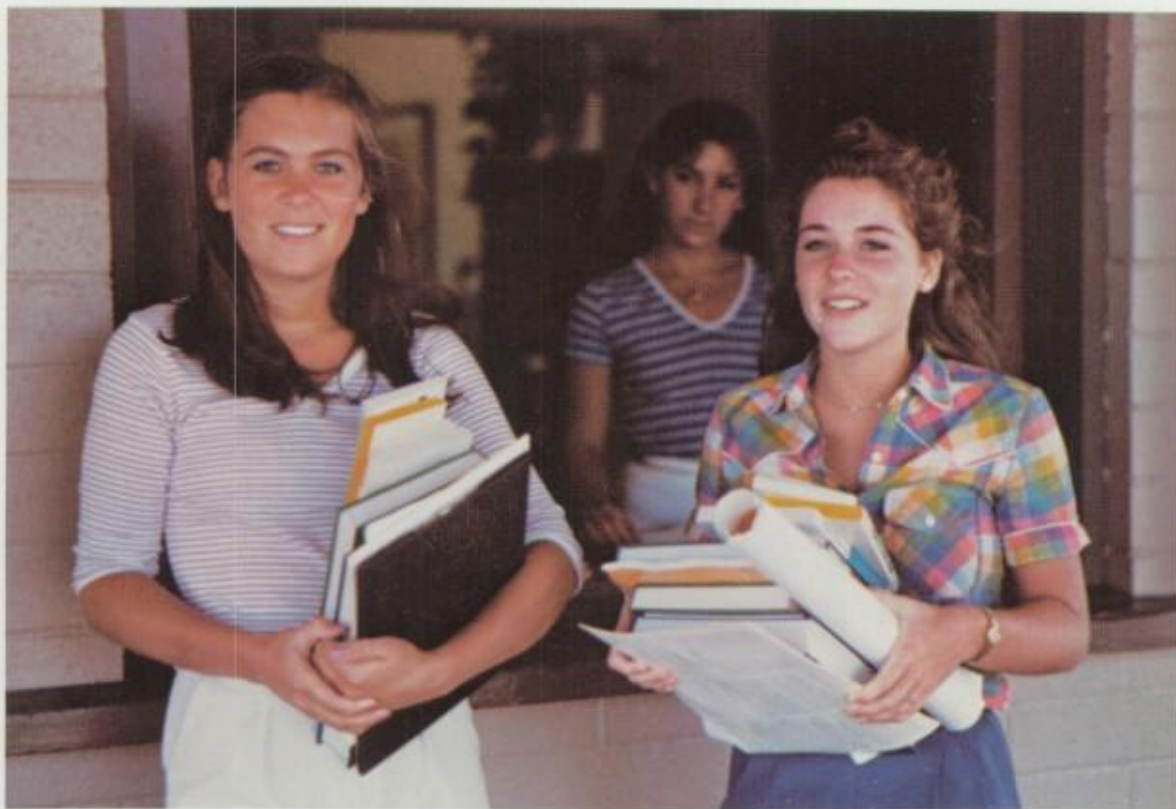

Eleventh grade was undoubtedly the most difficult year at high school. The level and amount of work left the entire class "awestruck." This was a pivotal year in my education; I faced many demands — preparing for SAT'S, selecting colleges, getting good grades. Most importantly, I persevered and made it to the next year.

And now, as a senior on the verge of graduation, I have reached the summit of my pre-collegiate experience. I am cognizant of my intellectual and social development; I am confident that I will achieve success in the future. Francis Parker was my vehicle and I am in the driver's seat. I am the product of American education.

The Entire Perspective: Students, Faculty and Administration

We come to the end of the theme section of the book which treats the idea of maturing through the years at Francis Parker. The next two pages complete the picture, acknowledging the person to whom the yearbook is dedicated.

The quality of an education cannot be measured in a chart or by a scale; it is seen in the student's ability to think clearly and make choices, to analyze and synthesize, to understand and be understood. In matters of providing quality education, we feel that Parker faculty and administration were the standard.

We also recognize the work of the school's staff: the secretaries, kitchen, work and transportation crews — the behind the scenes people who keep the school in one piece. They too are a part of the whole perspective.

Finally, we recognize ourselves who are the spirit of this or any school. Our fellow students and our friends will undoubtedly be in many chapters that we recall as our BILDUNGSROMAN.

DEDICATION

To You Mr. Volker

It is appropriate to end the theme section opposite our dedication because this year's recipient was greatly responsible for giving us a total perspective. He is an integral part of the school and our lives; he has grown with us into the composite picture at Francis Parker.

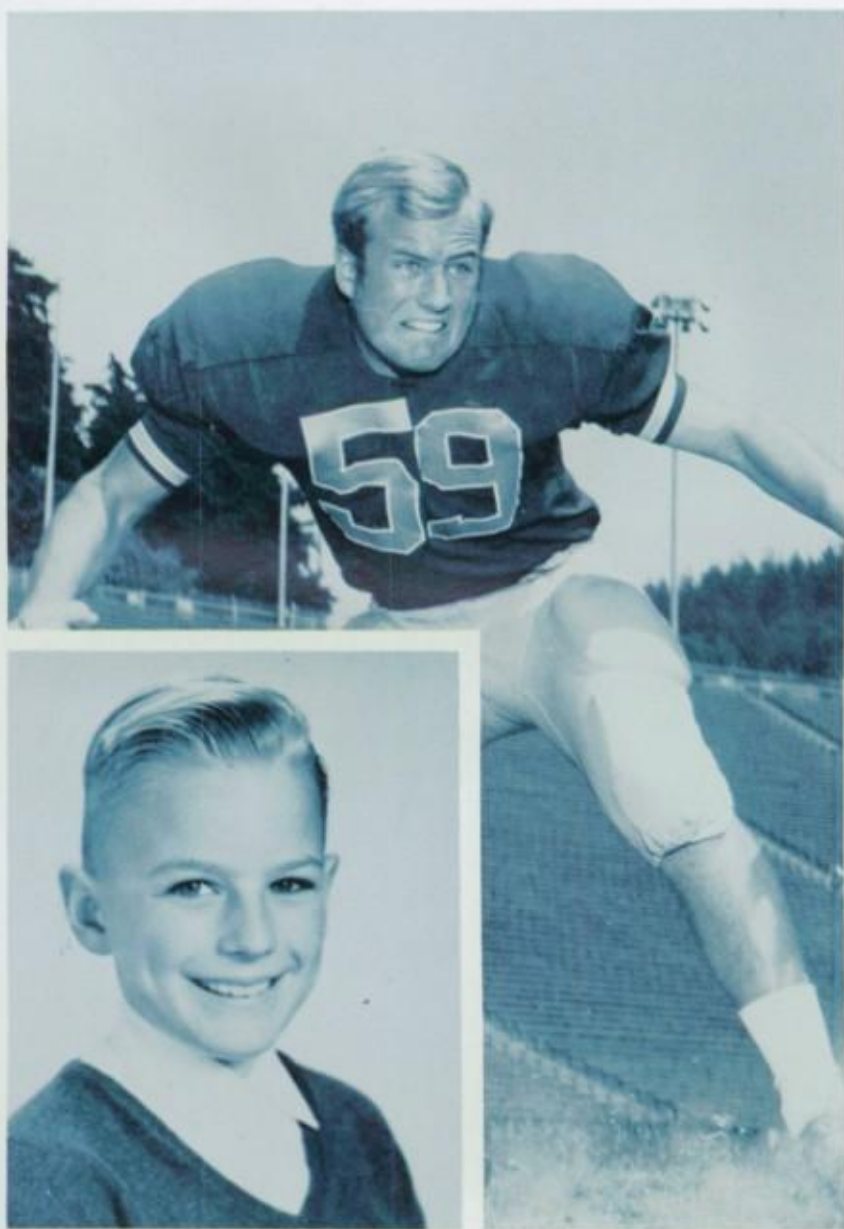

If we didn't have him as a teacher, we heard from many who did that he was funny, intelligent and not so big and tough as he looked. When we experienced his class, we knew we could relate well because our generations weren't so far apart. And when we saw him as an administrator, we knew the facts quickly and clearly.

At birth, he was called a "disappointment" by his mother (she cried because she wanted a girl.) Despite this inauspicious origin, he grew up to be a hometown sports hero and had a group of friends he called sods (same old derelicts). He was at college in Berkeley during the days of student unrest, played football, joined a fraternity in which he was called "Porky" and was student body president for 1½ months before he was dismissed for disciplinary reasons. While coaching at USD, he met Pamela Leighton, his future wife. He was married in 1977 and has a daughter, Lori Christine, born in 1979.

He is a perspective of our high school careers that we will never forget. He has worn many hats well: administrator, coach, teacher, counselor and friend. We respect him; we admire him; we appreciate all that he has done for us. Thanks, Mr. Volker — and here's to you!

Seniors

Veterans

The memories rise within my mind,
As this passage comes to a close.
The Future opens her arms
Like a long-expected friend.
My impatience contrasts
Her quiet constancy.
I await her embrace.
Like wisemen's gifts, I bring
Knowledge Strength, and Youth.
A little nervous, I stride
In cap-and-gown casuals
To an open end-point.
Pride swells like the sound of an orchestration.
And right over Destiny's welcome mat,
I take a last look back.
Sentimentality is like fragrance of goodbyes.
I may be a veteran of youth,
But a step away and I return to
A fledgling of age.

Charles John Fares . . . The proper course in which one must take is necessary for the existence of an independent state of thinking. I have tried to make such a course, to which would benefit me. However, I must admit that this course which I created set forth too high of a standard. It soon created gaps which in time would have to be filled with mistakes. But mistakes always build a foundation in which one can build upon. The course which I pursued also created a deviation from the normal pattern of social evolution. In fact, I must say that even today one can see this in my behavior. But I'm glad, for it created an unusual benefit, that being it enables one to enjoy thinking not like the majority but more like the minority . . . To my friends I hope I have contributed something that encompasses a different perspective . . . I would like to thank my parents and the teachers at Francis W. Parker School for providing me with an excellent education. I must also thank that great entity which is shrouded in question but who is the answer, God . . . "One does not have to adapt or die one can just live miserably." Author Unknown, me.

Felix P.K. Leung . . . I have come over from Hong Kong to San Diego. As Hong Kong is hot and humid for more than six months, I find that the climate here is better. The people I met are all fine, and in my school, I found good teachers and students that are willing to help. (I haven't met any "bad" one yet.) . . . The first thing I noticed about the school is its friendliness and efficiency. I first noticed it about a month ago, and it was the last morning I stay, I come to visit it. Because of limited time, I went for a test. After test, they agreed to have me as one of the students, so I paid my fees. During this short visit, I found the school very kind and willing to help. So I decided to come over to study . . . And that is how I come over to a good school to study.

THE FEW, THE PROUD, THE JUNIORS!

It's easy to spot a junior on campus, few though they are: simply look for a student with an impressive load of books and an equally impressive (groan) assignment in each. You might also look for a miniskirt or an Op shirt, electrifying tights or casual cords. And pay special attention to someone ascertaining just what the senior privileges are (for NEXT year, of course!).

But to understand their personality is more difficult; they defy classification. As a whole, they fill an important niche at Parker. As individuals, they permeate every aspect of the total scene. The typical junior is atypical and proud of it.

It is diversity that makes the junior class dynamic. They are a class of opposites, a class of extremes. The spirit of the juniors is nothing so much as unquenchable. For a junior, rules were made to be tested, then perhaps broken, perhaps upheld.

The juniors drive cars, study, go to college reps, and party — not necessarily in that order. But the essence of the class, so much more important and so much harder to define, is in the examination of self, society, and others; in the friendships, the spontaneity, the thoughtfulness; and in a distrust of the generally-accepted.

For want of a better label, they are the juniors: kids with a sense of fun and adults with much to offer.

Sophomores: New Times

The sophomore year lends a new perspective to an old scene. Grades become more important, PSAT's are weathered for the first time, and activity in extracurricular projects achieve more significance.

The 1982 Sophomores were well-suited to the various jobs at hand. A large class, a spirited class, they were outstanding for the enthusiasm which accompanied their involvement in schoolwork, sports, and electives. The Sophomores promise to play an active role in the rest of their high school years.

Freshman: Ready for Changes

The wild and lively freshmen were challenged in their 9th grade year. Although the homework increased in difficulty, they found time for school and individual activities. Filled with school spirit, the ninth graders enjoyed spirit week, sporting events, cheerleading, dances and added all sorts of enthusiasm to the high school. With ambition and interest the freshmen enjoyed such activities as surfing, skiing, mastering the Rubic's Cube, horseback riding, and running.

With memories of hard-earned letterman jackets, back-breaking semester exams, new classes and old (and new) friends, the freshmen are well prepared for an academic and fulfilled sophomore year.

Eighth Grade: Size and Sense

The Eighth Grade had fun this year being at the top of the Junior High. Their class was the largest and the most spirited that Parker has seen. They became more involved in the school, the Junior High sports teams, and they enjoyed participating as students. They frequented the Games Nights as this was their last year to attend them. This year allowed the Eighth Grade to mature and prepare themselves for High School.

A New Environment

The seventh grade class was excited about their new environment until they discovered that they had to carry books around all day. Most of the kids enjoyed changing classes and experiencing different teachers. The hardest part, though they felt, was learning how to adjust to each one. The overall verdict was one of pleasure. The students enjoyed their first year at the high school and they are looking forward to what their eighth grade year will bring.

Administrator's All

Our administration is comprised of many people who each represent a certain perspective of the office in which they work.

Mrs. Rogers sits behind her typewriter, constantly aiding the seniors in their hard work preparing their college applications.

Mrs. Crone, Mrs. Ghironi, and Mr. Volker are in their offices to advise and council the students, always eager to help.

Mr. Bennet makes sure that everything runs smoothly with the Junior High and its often seen collecting absence slips during first period.

Mrs. Smith is our link to the top. She attends many meetings and makes sure that everything runs smoothly all the way down the line.

Finally, tucked around the corner, is Mrs. Midlam. Her office is usually stacked with paperwork having to do with development, and public relations. She does an excellent job of putting out the informative ALUMNI BULLETIN.

The Administration is not only a perspective of the school; it is a perspective of itself.

Providing the impetus for the desire to learn and possessing the ability to satisfy this desire, once awakened, the Parker faculty is an incalculably important perspective of the school.

To dispense knowledge and to give insight, to guide and to improve — these are the goals of those who instruct an academic, coach a sport, or teach an elective.

The faculty faces the incredible task of preparing students for the next test, for college, and for life itself. In doing so they share not only their knowledge but a part of themselves. A joke, a story, and an equation all teach the student something; insights gained through rapport with caring teachers may be more enduring than facts memorized for exams or strength acquired by exercise.

Individually, and as a whole, the faculty is a group dedicated to helping students grow through the pursuit of knowledge.

Thanks to the Staff

Once again the staff did their best for us this year. Those in the cafeteria, headed by Mrs. Rosemary Nugent, produced wholesome and tasty lunches that we all enjoyed.

Dan Zatarain, in charge of transportation, and his assistant, Debbie Burzynski, always made sure that everything or everyone was moving smoothly.

The maintenance staff, supervised by Richard Holder, kept the campus in tip-top condition.

The Parent's Aid

It is the Parker board, led by President John Seiber, which is responsible for setting general school policies and which must address itself to the issues of capital improvements, property purchases and sales. The board is also integrally involved in both annual giving and capital fund raising efforts.

The Mothers' Club was actively involved in their annual auction which was held at the Guyman Manson, (the Vecchione's Home). The Spring Faire was super as always with the Farmer's Market, games, and many boutiques. They were also very generous in their contributions to the Yearbook and to the Senior High Student Council (for the terrific school calendar).

The Fathers' Club was very active in school sponsored activities. They flipped outrageously delicious hamburgers at the Homecoming Game after they beat the Mothers' Club in softball, 2-1. The Fathers' also enjoyed breakfasts and weekly basketball games. We thank them for the Homecoming festivities and for their contributions toward the purchase of computers.

Our Cavalcade

This year's yearbook staff was vivacious and overflowing with great ideas. In their first full year in Dorm I they worked diligently, many times after school and on weekends, getting pictures just right and layouts perfected for the best Cavalcade ever. The staff is proud of their achievement and they hope that you enjoy it just as much as they enjoyed putting it together.

The View After a Decade

In its tenth year of publication, THE VIEW underwent modernization and change. The most important improvement was the use of the computer as a word processor. This new system allowed a fast and easy way to write, edit and print stories for paste-up, avoiding time consuming manual justification, typing and correcting.

The most noticeable changes were the three columns of print instead of four, and more pictures and network.

The diligent staff worked hard to publish ten editions within the school year. The staff reflected the wide variety of personalities at Parker. A strong senior leadership contributed ideas and talent to this year of transition.

Council in Perspective

The Student Council at Parker continued to provide the school with effective governing, active fundraising and enjoyable social activity. They conducted a Yard-A-Thon at Homecoming, scheduled all upper school dances, discussed policy at weekly meetings and for the first time published a school calendar! At press time, Mr. Johnson, the adviser, and outgoing officers were busy planning for next semester's council elections.

Once again, the Senior High Girls' League gave us "service with a smile." They sold roses at Homecoming, had a Thanksgiving Food Drive for local needy families and with the Junior High Girls' League sold candy at Christmas. Valentine's Day would never be the same without their sale of coded valentines and many a student snacked at their candy sale after school.

At press time, the girls planned a car wash, a rummage sale, some kind of activity at Easter, a booth at the Children's Hospital Fair and a flower sale at the Year End Dance.

We thank them for purchasing a Beta-Max machine (with the Student Council) and recognize their help and service at Francis Parker!

Drama Brings Back Success!

The rather small first semester Drama group took on the momentous task of producing the Broadway musical "Bring Back Birdie!", a sequel to "Bye, Bye Birdie!". The cast included Andy Erös as Albert Peterson, the English teacher who wants to get back into show business; Robyn Bitner as his devoted wife Rose; and Renate Adloff as his mother Mae who turns out to be the sizzling Flapper Girl Delores Zepol. The rest of the Peterson family was comprised of Jenny, their rebellious daughter (Jacqueline Gardiner) and her brother Albert Jr. (John Halac). Bo Woods portrayed the aged, hip-swinging Conrad Birdie and Chris Frye was the southern detective Mtope assigned to "Bring Back Birdie." Mary-Jane Buck was Effie, Conrad's secretary, Tina Oggel was the slinky blond Rose II who helped Albert in his fight back to the top. Gary, Jenny's boyfriend, was played by Eric Rosado, and the band leader was played by Barney Firks.

The students are looking forward to putting on "The Wizard of Oz" second semester when they will be joined by the Drama 1 class.

Computers: Another Dimension

With the addition of twelve new "Apple II plus" computers, Parker boasts a more complete and interesting computer lab. Students who once thought that operating a computer was physically and mentally impossible have found that with a little effort, concentration, and assistance, computers are negotiable. The effort and concentration are up to the students; the assistance comes in the form of Mr. Pooch and Mr. Terrill, instructors of the course.

The computer class, aims to expose students to the capabilities of computers and to make them comfortable with the computers' seeming omnipotence. The main emphasis is teaching students to write their own programs, resulting in everything from computer games to algebraic calculations. Given as much freedom as is practical, the sixty computer students are enthusiastic and have progressed rapidly.

Parker's staff members rely more and more upon computer memory banks to save time, space, and effort, and each month "The View" is printed through a computer on a new letter-quality printer. In short, computer-mania has hit Francis Parker.

Electives: The Fifth Dimension at Parker

Creative writing: Karen Halverstadt, Michael Tracy, Kathleen Young and Mrs. Holmes.

Typewriter keys clatter busily ... sandpaper smooths the rough edges off of a piece of wood ... sketchpads fill with scenes from nature and the imagination ... cameras capture scenes on campus ... students discover new aspects of poetry ... electives offer additional dimensions to the academic scene at Parker and are important perspectives of almost all students' lives.

A fleet of boats was produced in Woodshop this year under the capable guidance of Mr. Cheskaty. Woodshop and Art remained popular electives; the six Art classes were involved with crafts such as stained glass, woodwork, graphics, and making sets for the Drama productions. Mr. Johnson gave the art students as much freedom as possible and the creative results were sensational.

Creative writing students had two main goals: to edit "Kaleidoscope," the creative arts magazine published annually, and to emphasize the skills needed for writing prose and poetry.

Although there were few photography students, their contributions were appreciated in the student calendar, 'THE VIEW, and the CAVALCADE. The electives offered challenges and enjoyment to students.

Homecoming: A

Homecoming 1981 was a fun-filled and exciting event for everyone. It began Monday, November 2, with spirit week and Future Day. Tuesday gave everyone a chance to disclose their Secret Ambitions; Wednesday was Tourist Day; Thursday was Preppy Day; and the week was brought to a close with Brown and Gold Day (and an original pep rally presented by the cheerleaders).

The game on Saturday was outstanding. Parker's terrific team displayed their championship talent and beat Chula Vista Christian handily 34 to 24. It was preceded by the Mothers' Club versus Fathers' Club softball game, and then the crowds began to gather to partake of the delicious food provided by the Fathers' Club and the Senior class. The highlight of the day was the crowning of queen Kathy Blue and her princesses Dena Murray and Sabra Lewis. The underclass girls were Kris Choconas, Isabel Estes, and Michele Brown. Escorting the girls were respectively, Ben Stephens, Kent Jones, Stephen Medin, Mike Seiber, John Romero, and Mike McNitt.

The Homecoming festivities were concluded with the dance Saturday night in the lower school auditorium. The band THIS KIDS played to a group of 140 students.

Games Night After Dog Days

There is one great thing that all the junior high kids share — Games Nights. The students enjoyed activities such as miniature golf, waterslides, and roller skating. Afterwards they returned to school to munch out on a picnic-style dinner. Finally the kids went over to the library for a dance.

The junior high schoolers liked this the best of all their new privileges at the high school campus.

Besides sponsoring Games Night activities, the Junior High Student Council had a Sport-a-thon to raise money for their annual Disneyland trip. They also organized a magazine sale to bring in some more money with the hope of being able to contribute to the school. In addition, at the Homecoming Game, they became involved with the Senior High in concession sales.

The Junior High Girls' League did their best to raise money for the school as well. They enthusiastically sold candy and flowers for the students to exchange.

The two organizations represented an important part of the Junior High School, making service to the school fun and worthwhile.

Girls' Leaguers hard at work!

A Time for Work . . .

This year's Cum Laude group was comprised of three girls: Melanie Singer, Anna Stump, and Renate Adloff. Their biggest profit was the second annual Book Fair. They sold over $1000 worth of books and the money they received from their commission were used in projects later in the year. At press time plans for these projects included a speech contest.

Another event sponsored by the group was college night. Parker alumni were invited to come and talk to the students about college life. Though many alumni couldn't attend because of exams, those who did and the students and faculty who joined them thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

This year's group and their advisers Mrs. Corbin and Mr. Pooch contributed much time and effort in service of Francis Parker!

The 1981 football team, a team depleted by the loss of twelve key members from last year's 2-5 club, was a team expected to be "re-building" in the new 8-man Coastal League.

Instead, the fruition of senior Pat Styles as Quarterback and the brilliant running of sophomore John Romero behind the vicious blocking of Frank Frye and Kent Jones firmed the core of an offensive unit that gained 3046 yards total offense, scoring 37 points per game. And once again these same people, along with Chris Brickman and Derek Krider, led a fierce defense that gave up only 14 points per game.

What this added up to was a team that marched to an 8-1 record, with their only loss occurring on a "Hail Mary" last second touchdown pass by Capistrano Valley Christian on the second game of the season.

The season culminated on the last game of the year, the League Championship game against Julian, as Parker defeated the Eagles for the second time in the season, 24-14, clinching the title.

As much as Parker dominated league play, they also dominated the All-League selections. Pat Styles was named First Team Quarterback followed by Kent Jones on the Offensive Line. The Defense was filled by Frank Frye on the Line and Chris Brickman at Linebacker.

But sophomore John Romero topped all players, being named All-League Player of the Year for rushing 1344 yards and scoring 24 touchdowns, while named team MVP.

Tina Keehl coached the Varsity Volleyball team to third place in the Southern League. Their strong record qualified the girls for the play-offs. Although they lost in the first round, Parker showed a lot of spirit and high potential.

This year's team was led by the strong hitting of Amy Smith, Kathy Blue, Laura Russell and Janet Hughes. Marites Quini, Dena Murray and Patty Drane provided excellent sets; and Sue Rutherford, Kendall McIntyre and Isabelle Estes rounded out the team with their consistent passes and serves.

At the All-Coastal League meeting this year Amy Smith was elected to the first team, and Marites Quini and Janet Hughes were named to the second team. Kathy Blue and Sue Rutherford were named as "Honorable Mention." Also, at the Sports Banquet, Amy Smith earned the "Most Valuable Player" award. Kathy Blue and Kendall McIntyre received "Most Improved Player"; Sue Rutherford and Amy Smith tied as "Most Dedicated Player"; and Janet Hughes was named "Most Team Spirit."

Though four seniors are graduating, the young Lancer squad is looking forward to a bright season next year. Due to the early loss in the play-offs, the girls will work hard during the off season and strive for the CIF championship next year.

Softball Success: An Infield Story

Although the Varsity Softball team was made up mainly of underclassmen, they were led by two inspirational seniors, Captains Dena Murray and Kathy Blue.

Along with strong hitting abilities, a supportive outfield, and a good pitching staff, the Lancer infield was the dominating factor of the team. Superb defensive playing was displayed by the starting lineup of Amy Smith at first base, Kathy Blue at second, Christine Gleason at shortstop, Jamie Woods at third, Julie Barrett starting pitcher, and Kendall McIntyre at catcher.

However, there wouldn't be a successful infield if they weren't backed by the outfield of Dena Murray, Renee Allison, Michelle Brown, Laura Russell, Kathy Gooding, Denise Vargas, Karen Halverstadt, Amy Hewitt, and Darcy Rhodes.

The Parker team not only played well, but most importantly had a feeling of unity, character, and friendship. Everyone held their own to lead the Lancers to victory.

The team would like to give its sincere thanks to Manager Emily Smith, Coach Strange, and Assistant Coach Keehl.

Soccer: From Rags to Class

Aggressive, quick play and unlucky breaks were very much a part of this year's soccer team. Midway into their season, Parker proved to be tough competitors against tough teams such as Bishops, Castle Park, Santa Fe, Mar Vista, and Coronado. These games were lost frequently by one or two goals.

Starting on the left and right wings are freshmen Mike Lewis and David Stephens. Because of their quickness they are welcome assets to the team, as are freshmen J.P. Leasure and Stuart Keith at the halfback position.

Down the center of the field starting with the striker are veterans Stephen Medin, Eric Rosado and fullbacks Eric Subin and David Nerhood. They set up plays and provide most of the power to move the offense. Also on the defense are the dependable Ben Stephens and Paul Frye. In the goal, at one time or another, are the sure hands of Rob Ilko, freshmen Mike Moore, and newcomer Chris Brickman.

The 1981-1982 Varsity Cheer Squad comprised of six veterans and one rookie, enjoyed many new experiences together. They traveled over hill and over dale to places like Julian and Borrego to support their teams, and they loved every minute of it.

The girls will fondly remember their week at Stanford, learning just as much about each other as they learned about cheering. Their most memorable experience was winning the fourth annual Spirit Stick which they affectionately named "Sylvester".

The girls enjoyed having their full time advisor Mrs. Kheel supporting them in all their efforts, and driving them to their away destinations at 50 mph so that she could get in as much gossip as possible.

Sabra Lewis, Renate Adloff, Shelly Warren, Lisa Hayworth, Gail Salganick, Monique Soares, and alternate Lisa Arneson enjoyed supporting their teams with enthusiasm and spirit.

This year's cross-country team was a solid group of participants who had a great deal of athletic talent to contribute to a successful year.

The cross-country team was spearheaded by a large senior cast with V. Pesqueira, J. Smith, C. Frye, E. Rosado, B. Stephens, and R. Ilko. The juniors consisted of B. Woods, M. Seiber, and E. Rindal. Other runners were D. Coutts, B. Penner, T. Harvey, N. Johnson, and R. Frye.

This year's team was fortunate to have Ed Helscher as coach because he planned a well-constructed conditioning schedule of sprints, hills, and long distance running. Mr. Salazar contributed his expertise, which helped Parker to win three out of six meets. This was a formative year for cross-country at Parker, rebuilding for the future.

Track Meets Success

Toler's up, up, and away.

Stewart flies through the air.

The '82 Lancer tracksters also join the company of the Lancer sports beginning to rebuild. Because of graduation and transfers to other schools, the Parker track team will be hard pressed to run competitively against Southern League powers, Santa Fe Christian, and Army Navy.

These losses have caused Coach Tina Keehl to wonder about the possibility of a successful year.

The boys will be led by hurdler Stewart Bieler, in his third season as a Lancer standout.

The girls will depend heavily on the efforts of Laura Russell in hurdling, sprinting, and jumping.

Much of the team's success depends on the many new recruits whom Coach Keehl hopes to mold into winning athletes.

Lancer Basketball: A New Beginning

The 1981-82 Basketball season is to be considered a year of firsts. First the good news. This was Coach Ed Helscher's first year as the Varsity Coach. Now for the bad news. This was the first year a Lancer Varsity team had to be built from scratch. Finally, and the worst of all, this was the first year since the 1974-75 season when a Lancer basketball team wasn't the coastal league representative in the sports arena.

Yet despite the inexperience! Despite the toughest schedule in Parker history, a schedule containing such teams as Coronado and San Marcos ranked 7th and 10th respectively overall in the county, among the other 2A and 3A competition. Despite the pressure that the spectre of last years Championship ball-club placed, Coach Helscher built a team that accumulated a 12-10 overall record, and, more importantly (and surprisingly) a 9-3 league record that placed them behind league giants Santa Fe Christian and Army Navy.

Led by Mike Seiber's 15 points per game, Stewart Bieler 9 points and 8 rebounds, Bo Woods 10 points, along with Kent Jones and Victor Pesqueiras' defensive expertise, the young team battled its way into the playoffs, to the surprise of many, while they faced the warriors from Army-Navy. In the first round, a frigid Lancer performance coupled with a torrid Warrior performance led to a decisive Army-Navy win ending the Lancer season.

Next year's team, in contrast with this year's, will have all but two returning and the Lancers should once again return to their familiar position of dominance.

Girls BB: On the Rebound

New Coach John Cook has assumed the leadership of an '82 Basketball team that, like many other Parker sports, is basically starting over from scratch.

With no returning seniors on the team, the on court leadership will fall on the very able shoulders of returning all-league players, Janet Hughes, junior, and Amy Smith, sophomore.

Janet and Amy are backed up by a contingent of stars from last years league winning J.V. The standouts are Kendall McIntyre, Jamie Woods, Caroline Randel and Karen Halverstadt.

Patty Drane, Marites Quini, Kristine Gleason, and Danielle Kaplan make up a very enthusiastic bunch upon whom Coach Cook can always depend to perform where needed.

This year's team, despite the youth, has set its sights to regain that C.I.F. crown that last year's team failed to grasp, and with every player returning next year, the future has nothing but success to offer the team.

Time Out For Baseball

This year a new brand of baseball was played at Parker. Unlike recent years, the Varsity baseball team had a more serious and devoted outlook on the season. Also, a strong emphasis was placed on player conditioning.

Led by new coach John Castleberry and Coach Dave Glassey, this young squad consisted of six returning varsity players, only one of which was a senior. Although the Lancers dropped their first two preseason games to Ramona and Victory Christian the coaches were optimistic. They pointed out, "The only mistakes that were made were from lack of experience, and those will be ironed out."

Regardless of the season's outcome, one can be sure that the baseball team was better prepared to play than they ever were in the past.

Tennis Serves Up Depth and Character

Top row, (l. to r.): Coach Giraud, M. Lench, S. Fisher, J. Smith, H. Tehranchi, C. Frye, M. Hoenecke, J. Gordon, A. Augustine, M. McNitt, K. Stephenson. Bottom row: J. Hansen, S. Kattleman, J. Gildred, H. Caplan, S. Clark, S. Ray, L. Dyson.

The 1982 Parker Tennis team is one of depth and character. There is great diversity among the players themselves. This ranges from an extremely experienced elite to a not so experienced yet totally enthusiastic middle class of the team.

The singles players are not only highly competitive but they add a definite flavor to the team with their rowdiness. On the top of the ladder is Sophia Ray, followed close behind by Suzanne Kattleman. Matt Hoenecke has assumed the third rung, with Mike Lench at the fourth spot. With the youngest player being a freshman (Sophia) and the oldest being juniors (Suzanne and Matt) there is a tremendous amount of potential for the future.

The doubles teams of Joel Smith, Andy Augustine, Steve Fisher, and Houman Tehranchi are noted for their completely individualistic approach to competitive teams. Sporting Bermudas (Joel), playing "hit the wet man," and practicing the art of destroying composure are all integral parts of these two game plan.

Under the strong leadership of Coach Giraud the team shows great promise for making this a winning season, and a championship year.

Desire and Determination: A Winning Combination

Keeping up the tradition of winning Parker football, the Junior Varsity Lancers used determination and a strong desire to win to compile a 3-2 record.

Led by Paul Frye's play at running back and a consistent line, the offense ran through Capistrano Valley while twice beating La Jolla Country Day (Frye also earned MVP for the offense). Lloyd Russell and Toler Goodwin split the quarterback duties, both showing the leadership needed to guide the young team.

Victor Zatarain sparked the hard hitting defense from his cornerback position, and was rewarded with the defensive MVP award. The defensive line stalwarts were ends Hector Zatarain and Ted Gildred along with noseguard Peter Collins.

Linebackers David Peele and Paul Frye were consistent tacklers throughout the year, holding the unit together through the rough times.

At the fall Sports Banquet, the coaches awarded J.P. Leasure Most Improved and Hector Zatarain Most Inspirational.

All of the J.V. players have great potential, making the future for Parker football very bright.

Spunk and Spike

Through determination, skill, and consistently sharp play, the J.V. Volleyball team finished the season first in the league. Undeclared in league play, they boasted an 11-1 overall record.

A team of seasoned players and fast-learning novices totalled fourteen fun-loving and spirited girls who made practices an adventure and sometimes an ordeal for Coach Kerry Kheel. But when it was time for serious volleyball, the girls pulled it together and played with unity and ability.

The J.V. never gave up. In a memorable game against Madison, they came back from a score of 3-9 in the first game to win 16-14. Outstanding efforts were made by Lauren Young, MVP; Laura Ilko and Julie Barrett, Most Improved; Nel Holstein, Most Dedicated; and Amy Swartz, Team Captain and recipient of the Coach's Award. But perhaps the most important aspect of a triumphant season is that each player learned, improved, and contributed.

JV's: Defense and Unity

Team play and a stingy defense characterized the Junior Varsity's rewarding season as they compiled a 6-4 league, 10-12 overall record.

Sophomores Jeff Heikkila, 8.8 points per game, and Hector Zatarain, 6.6 rebounds, paced the Lancers through the rugged season.

During the latter part of the year, Victor Zatarain and Lloyd Russell's sharpshooting kept Parker competitive with some of the better teams in the league.

The ball-handling chores were taken care of by John Romero and John Sharts.

Despite playing opponents such as San Marcos and Coronado, the team kept their composure and destroyed Cal Lutheran, Julian, La Jolla Country Day and St. Thomas Aquinas two times each.

Coach Kerry Keehl molded the raw talent into a smooth running club and deserves a great deal of credit for the success of his team.

Those who move to varsity as well as those who remain on J.V. should continue the tradition of winning Parker basketball.

J.V. Girls: Goal Oriented

The 1982 J.V. Girls Basketball Team was comprised of an enthusiastic group of girls under the tutelage of Coach Dave Cook.

This year's team (all but two players are in their first year) set up three goals early on that they were to follow. First they're going to have fun, then they're going to all be better players. Thirdly, and most importantly, they're going to strive to be a better team through practice and hard work.

As the season gets under way, Coach Cook believes that the key to their success will be a strong running offense and tough pressing defense. All the girls are anticipating a great year!

JV's and Varsity Work Together for Success

The Junior Varsity Baseball team was led by Ted Gildred, Steve Wilmans, Mike MacGuire, Neal Johnson, Todd Harvey, Stuart Keith and Andy Rosenfeld. At press time, the JV's had played well and the future looked optimistic.

This year's squad was fortunate because they worked closer with the Varsity in batting and fielding practice and in pitching (on the new mound next to the tennis courts). Hard work, dedication and this interaction with the varsity indicate a promise for future Parker Baseball.

Jr. High Sports

The results of the Fall and Winter Jr. high seasons clearly show that Parker will have continued talent for years to come.

Following in Parkers' traditional footsteps are the Boys Basketball team under Coach Cook with an outstanding 9-1 record, undefeated against league opponents, with their only loss coming at the hands of Christian High.

Girls Volleyball got on track under Coach Fran Styles rising to a 4-2 season against many tough opponents.

Girls Softball under Coach Keehl followed suit with a 3-2 season.

Co-ed Soccer under Coach Kuiper posted an excellent 6-3 season, showing great promise for further soccer seasons.

The only disappointing season came with Flag Football posting a 1-2 record. Since it is in their first year though, success will surely arrive as with the other sports.

The spring sports of Girls Basketball under Coach Helscher, Baseball under Coach Ghironi, and Tennis under Coach Kuiper, show further promise for Parkers' athletic future.

It's my turn!

As we go through the different stages of our lives, we sometimes forget that what we are today is the result of other peoples' concern and help. In the same way, this yearbook is the result of a concerned and helpful staff. I would like to thank each person who worked on the book and sacrificed some of his or her own personal time to meet deadlines.

First of all, I thank Mr. Dessants. Not only was he our advisor with millions of fantastic ideas, he was also a good friend.

Greg and Rob were two other people who kept the spirits up during the year. They came in to work after school and on weekends, staying until everything was finished and inspiring us with those never ending jokes and stories.

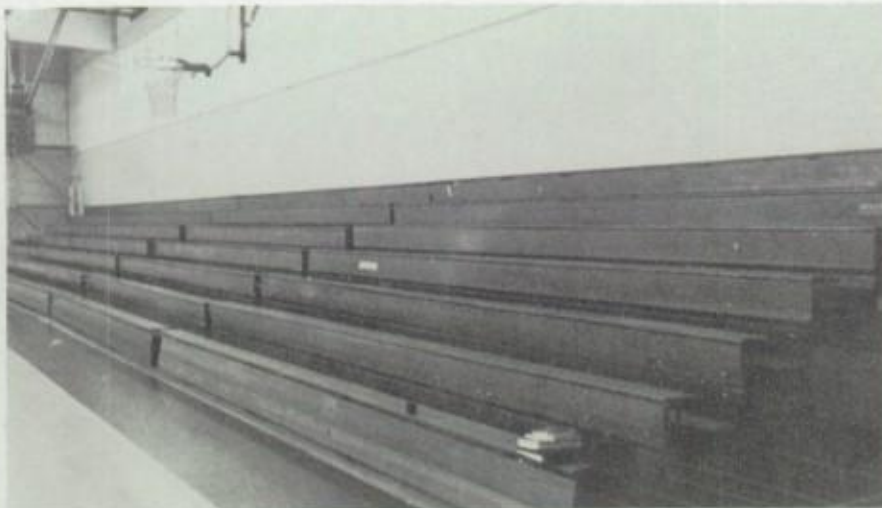

Jonathan, Renate, Leslie and Nel worked very hard writing copy and doing layouts. Without them the core of the yearbook would be non-existent.

Nel and Vanessa did the important and often tedious job of typing and proofreading. (Sometimes deciphering Greg's writing.)

Marla and Lisa worked very hard selling ads and raising money to pay for extra costs. Robyn managed the staff well, organizing assignments and group pictures.

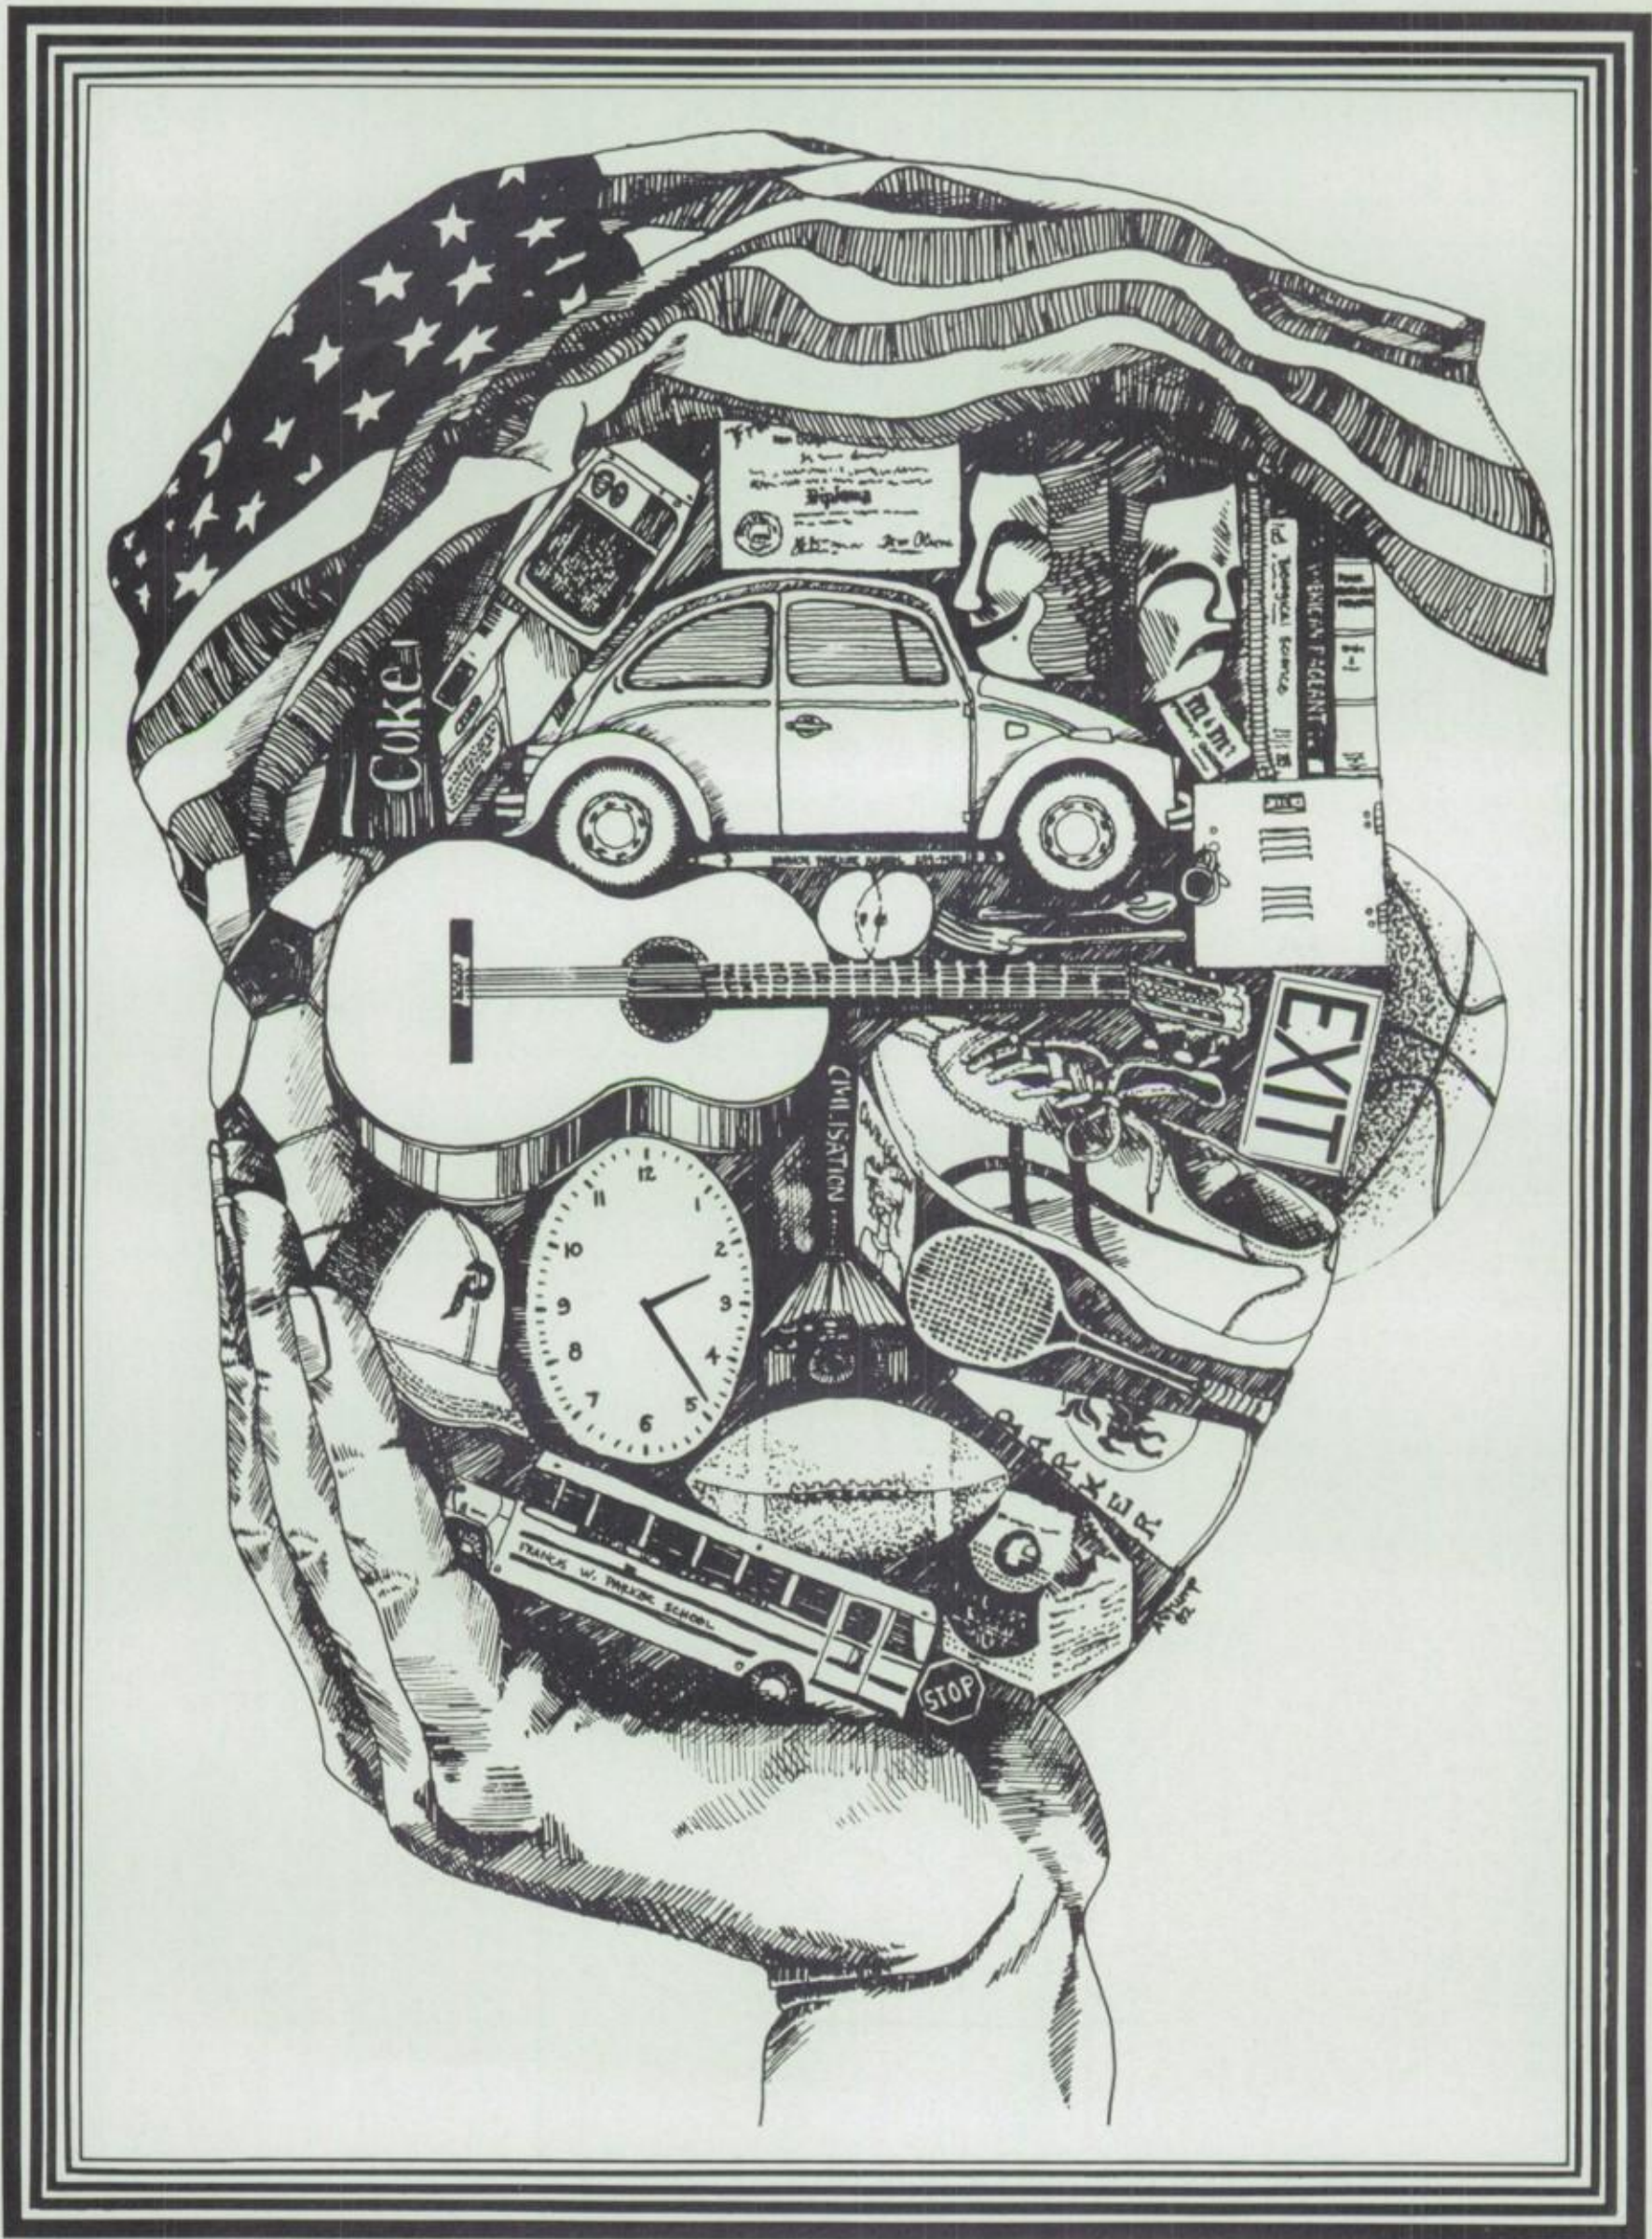

The Yearbook I Class also did a lot of helpful and time consuming work. This saved the staff, I think, from going crazy.

Last but not least, I would especially like to thank Anna and Steve for their incredible art work and poetry (respectively). They used their talents to convey to you the whole theme of our yearbook — growing up. Without them and the rest of the staff, I would have lost all "perspective."

"End-wise"

Thoughts that run
And clutter
Within the mind
Caught by the past
Whose silent arms
Have stolen moments.
A slice of youth is gone,
Like artless wonder,
It escapes
Within the shuffled piles
Of Experience.
Insight guides onward
As the truest sense,
The sense of thought.
And deep inside the heart
Is captured still sensation:
A child's laughter,
The smell of spring,
A sweetness of honey,
The warmth of a kiss,
And the silent moment
Of a setting sun.

Chris, this, this, this, this year is finally over!
I must say that I am glad we've finally out, but it also saddens me in a way I cannot truly describe. It is true that we have been good friends for a long time, this will never change.
And I also feel that your friendship has most certainly broadened my perspectives, as well as my perceptions. It is true, that you my friend, started me on every partying technique that I knew and practice today.

I still think today that the most fun I ever had in my entire high school career was during tenth grade. ~~(SHIT)~~ Remember making waste tapes, and the Quiles party after the costume dance? I also remember all of the good times we had in the band.

Well, I'll just like to say that I know we will always be perceptions - perceptions - perceptions - perceptions - the Beatles - "Hill Street Blues" - mini skirts -

Apple computers - heavy metal - tax cuts - Push - creation - perception -
Mediterranean fruit fly - Poland - Saturn - MX missiles - illegal alien - evolution
